

DO YOU SUFFER FROM CHRONIC HEADACHES OR MIGRAINES?

50 million Americans experience and see a physician about headaches. Migraine headaches are a painful reality for approximately 28 million Americans, most of them women. Unfortunately, even a variety of medications do not provide adequate relief for many of these patients.

Horizon Vascular Specialists is now offering a new treatment option called a Sphenopalatine Ganglion (SPG) block for patients suffering from chronic headaches, cluster headaches, migraines, and trigeminal neuralgia.

The Sphenopalatine Ganglion (SPG) is a group of nerve cells located behind the nose. The SPG carries information about sensation and pain to the brain where headache and migraine attacks may be generated.

The Sphenopalatine ganglion block involves delivering local anesthetics to the SPG, providing relief to patients in as little as 15 minutes.
